

EdVisions

EdVisions provides support for school transformation and new school development, including coaching, workshops, conferences, access to research and a variety of instructional and assessment tools.

The Ed°Essentials provide the research-based best practices and operating principles. When coupled with the design process, teachers create powerful learning experiences and environments for their students.

Data shows that as hope increases so does the ability of students to improve academically in the areas of math and reading. With the Hope Survey, schools can build a strong data driven decision making model which ties together relationships, relevance, and rigor through continuous school improvement.

The Hope Survey assesses students' non-academic outcomes such as self-efficacy, optimism, and problem solving ability which impact traditional academic achievement and influence success and quality of life outside of school.
